AN UNPAID BILL.

"Thirteen and seven are twenty; and nine—oh, dear me! I wonder what that noise in the basement hall is! It sounds just like some one crying."

Miss Comfort Walker laid down the pen wherewith she was industriously adding up her household accounts, and meta phorically speaking, pricked up her ears.

"It is some one crying?" she said to herself. "Oh, dear, dear! what a world of tears and tribulation this is!"

Miss Walker had been penniless and unprotected at the age of 20, but she was not one of the "drooping ivy" kind that takes to needlework and tubercles on the lungs. So Miss Comfort went boldly ahead, opened a first-class boarding-house and made money. This was the history of the brisk little woman in a brown debage dress and cherry ribbons at her neck, who bustled down stairs to see what could be the meaning of the vague, indefinite sobbing sound which now became audible.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" said Miss Comfort Walker, as she perceived Ellen O'Brien, the washerwoman, in the basement hall.

"Yes, it's me, worse luck, Miss Comfort," whimpered poor Ellen.

"And what's the matter?"

"It's me bill up stairs, Miss Comfort—the boarder in the second story front with the gay gold shirt studs an' the green and yellow stones in his sleeve buttons! Nine dollars and sivinty cents, Miss Comfort—six weeks' washing and ironing—and now, when I makes bould to ax him would he be pleased to pay me, he tells me it isn't convanient! Anh when I tells him how sore I need the money he ups and gets mad, and says I shan't have it at all."

Miss Comfort stood listening, with knitted brows and troubled black eyes.

"Have you got your bill with you, Ellen?" said she, after a moment's hesitation.

"Jimmy wrote it out, all nate and proper," faltered Ellen, producing a crumpled slip of pale blue paper from her pocket.

"Give it to me," said Miss Comfort Walker. "And come here this evening at 8 o'clock, and you shall have your money."

She went slowly up stairs with the little piece of paper in her hand.

"It's a shame," said Miss Comfort.

Leotard Carlyon was Miss Comfort Walker's best boarder, with the single exception that, up to the present moment, his twenty-five dollars a week had been in futuro.

Now it so chanced that one reason for her reposing so much confidence in Mr. Leotard Carlyon, the new boarder, was that he was the nephew and heir apparent of Caleb Carlyon, the rich banker from whom she rented her brown stone house, at the trifling consideration of three thousand dollars per annum.

So she went bravely up to Mr. Carlyon's room and tapped at the door.

"Come in," he called out. "Oh, it's you, Miss Walker, is it?"

Miss Comfort advanced valiantly with the bill in her hand to where Leotard Carlyon reclined languidly amid a heap of sofa pillows, with a newspaper in his hand.

"Don't you think you could settle this little account, Mr. Carlyon?" she asked. "The poor woman needs it so very much."

Leotard Carlyon's handsome black brows darkened.

"She has been to you with her story, has she?" snarled he. "No, I can't settle it. And I wouldn't if I could."

So Miss Comfort tied on a little brown velvet hat she had trimmed with scarlet popies and brown autum leaves, and set out bravely for the Mount Orient Bank.

The clerk stared at her a little curiously as she was shown into the president's room at the back, where Mr. Carlyon sat, straight and upright, with blue eyes like a falcon and hair slightly sprinkled with gray.

He elevated his brows at the sight of Miss Comfort Walker. And she told the story of Ellen O'Brien and her wrongs.

"May I ask, Miss Walker, why you interest yourself so markedly in this affair?" the banker asked, with a cold, measured calm that contrasted strangely with the little woman's heat and flurry.

"Because I think no man has a right to cheat a poor woman out of her hard earned money."

"Cheat is a strong word, Miss Walker," observed the landlord.

"It's the only correct word in this case, Mr. Carlyon," retorted Miss Comfort, secretly marvelling at her own courage in thus daring to confront the stately banker.

"Perhaps he is owing something to yourself?" questioned the banker, keenly.

"Yes, sir, he is," Miss Comfort made answer. "But it isn't that I came about. I am quite able to attend to my own financial debts, even to lose a little if it should be necessary, but this poor woman is friendless and alone."

Mr. Carlyon glanced at his watch. Miss Comfort turned toward the door.

"I am sorry that my time is no longer at my own disposal," said he courteously.

And Miss Comfort went away almost crying.

"Now I've made an enemy of him, as well as Mr. Leotard, and haven't done the least good in the world," she thought. "And he will let the house to some one else in the spring, and—and—but, after all, I am not sorry that I did my best. Poor, poor Ellen! What shall I say to her when she comes at 8 o'clock?"

But that evening just as Miss Comfort was beginning again at her pile of account books, a ring came to the door, and Mr. Carlyon, the banker, was shewn in. Miss Comfort rose up, confused and fluttering.

"Miss Walker, pray don't let me disturb you," said the banker. "I have only dropped in for a little social call. You showed yourself to me to-day in a different light from any in which you have yet appeared."

"A dun?" demanded poor Miss Comfort, almost hysterically.

"No—a true-hearted, noble natured woman! But you need no longer distress yourself. The bill is paid. And now, if you are at leisure, I'll just take my evening cup of tea with you."

How pleased and proud Miss Comfort was, as she poured the decoction of fragrant Young Hyson into her great grandmother's china cup, decorated with butterflies and oblong scrolls of gilt and violet! And how she kept wondering all the while how in the world Mr. Carlyon, the great banker, could take such interest in her homely and humdrum little affairs.

But if she had only known it. Mr. Carlyon seldom came across a true, real heart in his complicated business transactions.

* * * * * * *

"It's not true," said Mr. Leotard. "My uncle never would make such a fool of himself at his age. Why, he's fifty if he's a day!"

"Only forty-four," said Mrs. Leigh Creswick, with malicious delight. "But, of course, it must be a great mortification to you, Mr. Leotard, who have always been looked upon as his heir. And to think, too, he is going to marry that queer little old woman who keeps the boarding house. For it's true! True as taxes! I saw the wedding ring myself at ——'s."

"Mr. Leotard Carlyon gnawed silently at his mustache. How strangely little circumstances are woven together into life's web, he thought. If he had paid that whimpering washerwoman's bill she would not have confided her woes to Miss Comfort Walker; and Miss Comfort Walker would not have gone to his uncle; and his uncle wouldn't have fallen in love with Miss Comfort's rosy cheeks and bonnet neither, and he would still have been the rich banker's heir apparent.

He wished he had paid the washerwoman's bill.

A Wicked Driver.

The conduct of some of the drivers on the street cars in Austin is certainly very reprehensible. An old lady got on the street car, and as soon as she set her eyes on the driver she called out: 'You are the very driver that refused to stop the car and made fun of me.'

'Yesterday afternoon?' he asked.

'Yes; yesterday afternoon.'

'On the corner of Pecan street?'

'Yes.'

'On the northwest corner?'

'Just about that corner.'

'At three o'clock?'

'Yes, sir; it was three o'clock.'

'Was it a blue car with a bay mule?'

'Certainly; blue car and bay mule and a feller with a red pimple on his nose, and a mouth like a catfish, just like yours, driving it!' she exclaimed excitedly.

'And you craned out your neck this way, opened your mouth until one could read the maker's name on your false teeth, and bawled out, 'stop—that—car! stop—that—car!'

'Yes, you scoundrel!' she replied, drawing back to hit him with her umbrella.

'Then it wasn't me, for I am always polite to ladies, even if they are ninety five years old, sport porcelain teeth and sass car drivers. Ta ta!' and he jumped over the dashboard to swap cars with the driver coming the other way. —Alex Sweet in Arkansaw Traveller.

The "Rose Fever."

'Doctor, I thought you would never come. I can't stand it much longer,' said a young man to a Cincinnati doctor, 'I've got such a pain in my head. First it was a headache, then my head got cold and the pain concentrated between my eyes. When I breathe through my nose it feels as though my brains were being pulled out.'

'Humph!' said the doctor, 'been to the flower show, have you?'

'Yes,' said the young man in surprise, 'I've been there two or three times.'

'Well, you've got rose fever. Sometimes it is called hay fever. Some flower has poisoned you. Had a lot of patients like you this week.'

When the patient had been prescribed for and had departed, the writer, who had been somewhat surprised at the diagonis given, remarked:

'Were you jesting about that man's complaint?'

'No, certainly not. I have had a number of patients this week who have had the same trouble. Some of them have not had as severe an attack as this man has, but complain of unusual pain in the head which they cannot account for. It is a queer disease, and yet it is perfectly explainable on a natural and reasonable basis. Plants and flowers possess in nearly every instance some good or bad property. A child at play in the garden may take a fancy to eat the leaves of the leaves of the seeds of a pumpkin and no harm results. The next minute or two the little thing changes its food to jimson seeds and then there is a funeral. In some cases it is the root only of the plant which is poisonous or beneficial, and it may have to be treated in a complicated way before its qualities can be extracted. In other plants it is the leaves alone which contain the properties, and then again in many other instances they are contained in the flower. It is not, perhaps, the whole flower which is of use. It may be the corolla, or the calyx, or the stamens, or the pistils, or the petal which are charged with good or evil. And then, too, as you have often heard, no doubt, the same flower or some other vegetable matter does not effect all people alike. Hay and rag weed are the best known causes of this species of catarrh, and its name 'hay fever,' has been given to it on that account.

'There is no determining what flowers have and what they have not in this influence. Some people are affected by tuberoses, others by lilies of various kinds. I know a big, strong man who is thrown into perfect agony by the slightest smell of flaxseeds when prepared for a poultice. Another man of my acquaintance would be made violently ill if buckwheat flour is cooked in a building where he is. All these things are perfectly explainable on scientific grounds, which I don't propose to enter into now, but if you will inquire among the people who have been to the flower show I am sure you will find many who have had sudden headaches and troubled with catarrh after leaving the flowers.' —Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

The Odor of the Hay Field.

Going from New England to a Western State, many years ago, the writer was struck with the difference between the two localities in the haying season. In the older States, the air at haying time is redolent of the most delightful fragrance, making it a pleasure to be out of doors. At haying time in the western locality, there was only a clean weedy odor, quite unlike that to which we had been accustomed. In looking into the reason for this lack of pleasing odor at haying, we examined the hay, and while all the usual grasses were present, we could find no trace of the Sweet-scented Vernal grass, Anthoxanthum odoratum, so common in eastern meadows. In itself, this grass has little value. Indeed, its chief merit lies in its odor. This is developed as the herbage dries, and a few spears of this grass will impart its fragrance to a large mass of hay. This grass should always form a small part of a mixture for seeding a lawn.—American Agriculturist for July.

A TOUGH YARN.

Short on Guns But Long on Wild Cats.

Story of a Controversy With a Ferocious Varmint in the Wilds of Sullivan County, N. Y.—He Earned the Bounty He Received.

[Deckertown (N. Y.) Special.]

'I never had such a brush afore in my life,' exclaimed a rough looking specimen of a Northwoods lumberman as he stepped into the Treasurer's office in Monticello, Sullivan County, just across the York State line. The man carried a double-barreled shotgun, a horn powder receptacle, a ponderous gamesack, a leather shot-pouch, and he wore a big, broad slouch hat, and coat and pants so patched it was difficult to tell of what they were originally made.

'But I fetched 'em dead sure, and here's there skelps, too, and I thort I'd jist step in, Mr. Treasurer, and git the bounty on 'em, seein' as I needed some change to git a little stock of am'nition for them b'ar up on Clinton Holler.'

'What have you got now?' 'I've got two wildcat skelps; and my name isn't George Sackrider if they didn't come mighty nigh onto hevin' mine. They got poor Jack's—that's my dog—as it was. 'Twere a mighty close tussel for me.'

He drew out the scalps of two wildcats and handed them to the official, and then sat down.

'You see, I had seen b'ar signs leadin' down to'rds the Holler, but hadn't gone fur afore we discovered plenty of wildcat signs, and Jack took the track and went to'rds the swamp. While waitin' fur the varmints to come, a big henhawk settled down into an old tree jist in nice range. He sot there so temptin' that I ups and knocks him down, kerflop, deader'n a doornail. 'Twarnt two minutes afterward and afore I had time to load the empty bar'l, when I heard Jack a makin' fur me, lickety split. I jist had time to jump into posish, when I heard a rushin' in the dry leaves, and then a tarnel big wildcat were seen makin' straight fur me. When it seed me it started kinder thunderstruck, as though it had best dodge around the corner. Pullin' up, I jist gave it one bar'l, and over it rolled. But the next second 'twere up and, with blood in its eye, it made fur me. It jumped for my throat, and I struck it back with my gun. [Gosh! but didn't I wish that hawk hadn't come foolin' around so soon!] It kept comin' at me, clawin' and tearin' like mad, spilin' my broadcloth most shameful like and projucin' the claret outen my my legs and arms dangnation fast. Jist as I had given the varmint a stunnin' blow and set my No. 11's onto its throat, gosh-a-neddy if there didn't come another cat, bigger'n the furst. But, I kin tell yer, there was clawin' and yellin' come around there 'bout that time! The fresh cat he jist jumped fur me and tore 'round like all fury, and I feared I'd have to knock my gun all to pieces on his blamed ugly old head, or else git tore to strings. Mighty! But, didn't he claw, though!

'But the Lord allers was on my side, and jist at the last moment, when I was a-fightin' one with a gun bar'l and a-holdin' of the one down with my feet, and hevin' him tear my legs into shoestrings, up comes Jack—poor, old Jack—and he grabbed the loose cat. It didn't take me long, then, to finish out that cat under my heels, but I hadn't done it none to soon, afore 'tother was at me agin' it havin' torn the skin all offen poor Jack's face and noddle. Poorty soon I got in a square blow and broke the darnation varmint's back, an' I kicked the stuffin outen of it in short order, then, you kin bet. Poor Jack he were done fur, though!

'Well, George, here's your bounty for the scalps.' The hunter took the money and strode out with a self-satisfied air, that seemed to indicate his entire willingness to attack half the wildcats in Sullivan County, if only both barrels of his gun were loaded and no hawks were to appear.

Experience.

It is a popular maxim that experience is the best teacher. This is true—and false. Did you ever know a moth that had been singed by the flame fail to dash directly to the flame the moment that it could use its wings again? How large a proportion of those who have learned by bitter personal experience what the vice of drunkenness (or any other vice) is, turns from that sin on account of that experience? There are, in fact, many teachers concerning evil better than experience of evil. The warnings of a father, the gentle leading of a mother, the holy precepts of a Sunday-school teacher, if heeded, are better far than the lessons of experience, in the direction of those warnings; for these teach through defending and preserving, while experience teaches too often through loss and destruction.

A RINGTAIL COW.

No man in this county is more truthful than John Hilfern. He would rather tell a truth than to tell a lie. This peculiarity has given to his character an oddity that causes vague mutterings in the neighborhood. No one ever saw John take a drink of whisky. Yet when he came to town last week he was so drunk that he could not have slapped the face of the earth with a horse blanket. I was greatly shocked, for I had confidence in John. I was not willing that he should escape censure, so the next time we met I drew him to one side and said:

'John, we are all pained to know that you have been drunk. During many years you have been a shining example. Now, our confidence in you is shaken—we are hurt.'

Affectionately placing his broad hand on my shoulder, he replied:

'I do not deny that I was drunk. It is an almost incredible story. Let us sit down and I will tell you.'

When we had sat down John continued: 'The other day as I rode along toward town I began to notice that there was something curious the matter with me. I felt a disposition to yell at everything I saw; and, strange as it may seem, I began to get hungry for a fight of some sort. Well, by the time I got to town I was as drunk as a fool. I couldn't understand it, for I had drank nothing. When I returned home my perplexity was increased, for I found my wife and brother-in-law so drunk that they couldn't have walked round a straw hat.'

'You don't tell me so.'

'Yes, I do. They swore that they hadn't drank a drop.'

'How do you account for it?'

'Just wait a minute. The next morning we were all sober, but after breakfast we were all drunk again.'

'You don't say so!'

'Of course I do. If I didn't you wouldn't know anything about it. Well, we sobered up a little but sir'—here his voice sank to a whisper—'after dinner we were all so drunk that we wouldn't have known the President from a deputy constable.'

'How do you account for it?'

'You just wait a minute. The affair was so strange that I began to investigate. After awhile it was all as clear as daylight.'

'What was it that made you drunk?'

'Milk.'

'Milk!' I exclaimed.

'Yes, milk.'

'How can you explain it?'

'You just wait a minute. Several days before, I had bought a ringtail cow, the most peculiar animal of her species, and I discovered that she had gone to a distilliery and had drank the slop.'

'Well, that is remarkable.'

'Yes, rather. I soon found out that the ringtail cow is the only illicit distiller among the entire cow family. People came for miles to look at her.'

'What did you do with her, kill her?'

'Bless you, no. A deputy United States marshal arrested her, but, upon examination, the judge said that there was no statute to fit the case. I took the cow home and sold her for three hundred dollars.'

'So large a sum as that?'

'Yes, a temperance lecturer bought her. I saw him the other day and he told me that he wouldn't take a thousand for her. Said that he never did see so much fun. Well I must go.'

John is a poor man, but he is truthful. He would rather tell the truth than to break a colt.

Mr. Beecher's Torn Trousers.

Toward the close of an evening's prayer meeting at Plymouth church, Mr. Beecher, shaking his finger gravely at those who sat on his left said to those who sat on his right: The edification hasn't been evenly divided this evening. My friends on the left have been industriously lauging at me because I have a big hole in the left leg of my pantaloons. [Laughter.] Allow me to inform them that these are a new pair. If they were old and I couldn't afford new ones, I should be dreadfully ashamed. As it is I am not, but my wife is. [Renewed Laughter.] In making a call this afternoon my leg came in contact with a barrel and it had a nail in it; hence the tare. I tried to close it with a pin, but the pin dropped out. So it is with our sins. We can pin them up. The pin will drop out and disclose the bare spot.

'Dear me!' exclaimed a city girl who visited a dairy for the first time, 'what queer looking stuff this is! It looks just like yellow paint. What is it?' 'Why, that's cream on top of the milk, sis,' said the dairyman. 'Is that so?' she asked in astonishment. 'Why, the cream that I use always comes in boxes and has a label, so we can tell what it is.' The farmer sat right down on the the stone floor and fanned himself with a milk pan.

A BRIDAL FREAK.

The Funny Couple That Drove Around the Streets in Wedding Garments.

From the Baltimore American.

The sight of a blushing bride, in full bridal costume, sitting in an open buggy on Baltimore street, met the eyes of all passers-by yesterday afternoon. The bride—who lookek old enough to know better—wore a wreath of orange blossoms and smilax and veil, while her hands were encased in white kid gloves and her feet in white kid shoes. At her bosom she wore a large bunch of orange blossoms. The white contrasted greatly with her raven black tresses, which fell in ringlets about her neck. Her husband wore a full suit of store clothes and a straw hat. He had great difficulty in steering the poor horse and the buggy looked as if it would fall to pieces. The bride and groom rode up and down Baltimore street, much to the amusement of the crowds on the street, and in vain tried to find a photographer who would take them. At last they found one near Gay street. When the groom found the place he had much trouble in getting the horse and buggy up to the curb, and at last had to get out and lift the buggy into position. Then he lifted his wife out, and she stood on the pavement in all her bridal glory and finery, the observed of all observers; but she did not mind that and seemed to care more for the safe disposal of a bandbox and a lace shawl than the crowd who watched her. The couple went into one gallery, but there they could not be taken large enough and so they came down again and went into another. The groom put on his white kid gloves, and they had a perfectly "scrumptious time" sitting for their picture in bridal custume. Several plates were used before a good negative was secured, because the groom insisted upon kissing the bride every time the photographer's back was turned. After the "ordeal" the bride took off her orange blossoms and veil and opened the bandbox and got out a white bonnet and put it on. Then the couple left. The groom went into the middle of the street and, after taking off the steamboat hawser that tied the horse to the hitching-post, turned him "off" so the wheel would not dirty the bride's white dress, and the lady, unassisted, hopped into the buggy. He followed her, and soon the vehicle and its precious load went down the street and out of the city towards Philadelphia.

A Clever Confidence Couple.

A beautiful girl, with large blue eyes and golden hair, but shabbily dressed, greatly interested a large crowd of gentlemen on one of the East river ferry boats the other day by singing very sweetly and tenderly the well-known hymn, "Jesus, Lover of my Soul." As she concluded one verse, a large, well-dressed man called a deck hand and ordered him to put her out of the cabin, she looked despairingly and burst into tears. There were cries of 'Throw him overboard,' 'Let her alone,' 'Shame!' The large man, who looked like a railroad president, insisted; said that the deck hand was doing his duty, and that the ferry company had ordered all nuisances suppressed. He acknowledged that he had complained of her. The murmurs of discontent and anger arose around him, at which he seemed somewhat disconcerned and, approaching the poor girl, said:

'What's the matter, sissy?'

Then she told her pitiful story of a sick mother, a dead father, no work, hunger, distress, and her anxiety to get employment.

'Oh, don't send me to prison,' she cried, breaking down completely.

The large man was abashed, and the crowd looked angry and scornful again. He at once apologized, and to show his regret for his blunder, immediately took out a five dollar bill, which he dropped into her hat. Then he passed the hat, which was soon filled with money. After the passengers had left the boat, he joined the girl and they both went off together. He was a well-known clever confidence man, and the young woman was his wife, as clever as he.

A country editor received the following: "Dear Sir—I have looked carefully and patiently over your paper for months for the death of some individual I was acquainted with, but as yet not a single soul I care anything about has dropped off. You will please have my name erased."

The jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty," and it was recommended to have the notorious lady put in an asylum. It is said that her relatives petitioned to be allowed to take her back with them to England.

THAT the "general depression" in industrial circles, does not make itself felt in all localities, is proven by the boom of the masons and bricklayers in Chicago. As it seems, that city is spending an immense lot of capital in building projects, and while other laborers must be glad to have employment at any wages, and many manufacturers, merchants, etc., have hard work to keep above water, the masons and bricklayers in Chicago are all busy every day at from $4.00 to $6.00 per day and at headquarters of the Union, demands have come in for several hundred more men. This is a splendid opportunity for that class of mechanics to save up for a rainy day.

THE TORIES, who at present have hold of the government wheel in England, must enter the elections with a popular programme, if they would be successful. Their conservative principles, to wit "upholding of the old ways" and "opposition to innovations" even if the latter are improvements on the old, do not meet with the people's approval. By observing a strong foreign policy, which will secure the friendship of Germany, Austria, Turkey and other nations, the conservatives will stand the best chance of victory in the elections. The new ministry, however, seems to be aware of the necessity of such a course, and the liberals are becoming alarmed at the strategims employed by the conservatives in the coming struggle.

THE Republican State Convention, at Harrisburg, on Wednesday, July 8th, nominated Col. Watthew Stanley Quay, of Beaver county, for State Treasurer. This is as most people who keep posted in political affairs, expected. The arrangements had all been made in the well-known machine style and it was with but little trouble that the nomination of boss Quay was accomplished. But as in the memorable campaign of 1884 there is a dissatisfied and rebellious element in republican ranks, representing the better class of republicans who do not expect to keep quiet in the coming struggle and should the Democrats nominate a man who is in all respects superior to Colonel Quay, there is a probability of democratic success. The platform of the convention and the candidate nominated are well suited together

Mr. Malcolm Hay Retires.

Ex-Congressman Stevenson, of Illinois, to Succeed Him.

WASHINGTON, July 3. — Malcolm Hay has tendered his resignation as First Assistant Postmaster-General. The President has accepted it to take effect Monday July 6th, and appointed Ex-Congressman Stevenson, of Illinois, to succeed him. Mr. Hay has made an efficient officer in spite of his feeble health, but has found himself unable to cope with the business of his position, which is one of the most exacting in the whole civil service. It is the intention of Colonel Hay to leave in a few days for Colorado or Wyoming. Mr. Hay refused to receive any compensation for the time he was absent in Florida and turned over the voucher which he received for his salary for that time to the Treasury department.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24, 1885.

A million and three-quarters of dollars belonging to the whole people of the United States, is the sum that has been sunk in the attempt to hold an International Exposition at New Orleans. The sum of money obtained from Congress in the first instance (a million of dollars) was gotten by the most palpable and glaring array of false pretenses that ever confronted that body, and why, after this was discovered, Congress should have voted another six hundred and fifty thousand dollars, is past all comprehension. The exposition is a dead failure, but in the way of contributions to the landlords and peanut-venders of the Crescent City, the concern has met with phenomenal success.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office has rendered a decision lately in which is the emphatic avowal of his determination to put an end to the fraudulent entries of the public land throughout the country, so far as the power of accomplishing it is vested in him. This declaration, in the face of the tremendous influences that have been and will continue to be brought to bear upon the local offices, and indeed the General Land Office itself in favor of the rings of land-grabbers, is an indication that Mr. Sparks means business in his future dealings with these frauds and will enforce the laws against all who attempt to override or evade its provisions, either as to the incipient step of obtaining possession of the public lands or the ultimate occupancy of it in securing the title to an absolute patent. A number of leading men of the Salvation Army in Plymouth, Pa., are in jail because of their refusal to pay a fine of $2 each and costs, imposed upon them by the burgess for parading the streets and making noisy demonstrations.

A buxom country girl rode into Carlisle, Pa., the other day, wearing a jaunty-looking hat of strictly domestic manufacture. It was made wholly out of oat straw and corn shucks that grew upon her father's farm, and was trimmed with chicken feathers dyed in poke berry juice and blue writing fluid. She created a sensation.—Philada. Press.

The latest device for raising money at church fairs is to have an "auction of veiled beauties." Each lady will be wrapped in a gossamer waterproof and will carry a lunch basket filled. They will be sold at auction to the highest bidder and the purchaser will secure the lady's company as a partner for the evening and will share in the contents of the lunch basket.

The new rate of postage which went into effect on the 1st inst., may not be properly understood. It affects the public only in this particular: Formerly all letters weighing over half an ounce required double postage of four cents. Under the change a two-cent stamp will carry a letter to any point in the United States that does not weigh more than an ounce.

LAY THEM AWAY—We mean the horrible, nauseous worm-seed compounds called worm syrups and vermifuges; many of them as worthless as they are obnoxious. They have out-lived their usefulness. People do not want them since McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders, so easy and pleasant to take, can be had from any dealer. Everyone who has tried them say they are the nicest and best vermifuges ever discovered. The children take them and never know a medicine is being administered. Any case of failure to cause expulsion where worms exist the money promptly refunded in every instance.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS.—It is not generally known that a man who refuses to pay for his newspaper can be prosecuted like an ordinary criminal or thief. A New York paper has begun suit against several delinquent subscribers under the U. S. Postal Laws, which say, "the taking of a newspaper and the refusal to pay for the same renders the person liable to a criminal prosecution as a thief, and a person guilty of the same can be punished as if he had stolen the goods to the amount of subscription." Postmasters are also liable for price of subscription for allowing papers to accumulate in their offices when subscribers have moved away or refused to take them from the office.

Accident to a Farmer.

ALLENTOWN, July 10.—Last evening after the day's work in the harvest field Peter Hamerly proceeded to unhitch the horses. He had neglected to throw the machine out of gear, and while he was unhitching one of the horses the other became restive and started forward, pulling the reaper after him. Before Mr. Hamerly realized his danger or had time to get out of the way the quickly moving knife cut off one of his legs at the ankle. Mr. Hamerly is one of the best known citizens of South Whitehall and is about fifty years of age.

Chronic Catarrh.

C. W. Mellier, of 406 South Fourth street, St. Louis, is twenty years of age, and has been a sufferer from chronic catarrh, which had become quite offensive. When he came to Dr. Hartman, two months ago, he was told it would take six months to cure him. But he has progressed beyond all expectations, and nearly all signs of the disease have disappeared. Before being treated he could not breathe out of the nose, and now he has perfect control of the nasal organ. PERUNA did the business.

James Dunn, of 1310 Gay street, St. Louis, has suffered from catarrh since 1870. The gentleman told the reporter the following straightforward story of his case. "I took the disease in Memphis. It commenced in my head and extended to my throat, and a bad cough followed. I went to a number of physicians, and they told me my trouble was liver disease, and one said it was palpitation of the heart that caused the cough. For the last year I have been practically worthless. I could not ascend a flight of stairs without suffering from shortness of breath and fast beating of the heart, and my appetite was very defective. After eating I often coughed so hard that I would throw up everything in my stomach. I could not walk any distance without panting. Five weeks ago I went under the care of Dr. Hartman, and now my cough has disappeared and I feel like a new man." PERUNA was his treatment.

Next came George Sauerbaum, residing at 1929 Carr street, St. Louis, who is an old patient of Dr. Hartman. He stated that he had suffered most intensely from chronic catarrh of the head and lungs, but is now almost cured, his lungs being entirely well and his head greatly improved. The gratitude of this gentleman was almost boundless, and he expressed it to the reporter in the strongest terms, saying "PERUNA will cure any disease."

I. P. Dukehart, of Cumberland, Md., superintendent B. & O. R. R. Co.'s Hotels (conductor on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for twenty-eight years, and previously a druggist), writes: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O. I have used but one bottle of PERUNA between myself and son. He had diptheretic sore throat, and is now well. As for myself, it has entirely relieved the dullness in my head, which has been of long standing—the result of chronic malaria. I never took anything in my life that gave me such great satisfaction. My wife is now taking it also."

—If you are troubled with a 'hacking cough,' Down's Elixir will give you relief at once. Warranted as recommended or money refunded.

Two Distressing Accidents.

Two Men Blinded by Powder and One Man Killed by Lightning.

SELINSGROVE, Pa., July 12.—An explosion occurred on Friday in Simon Beaver's mine that resulted in blowing out the eyes of an aged and experienced miner from abroad, and also blinding a son of Mr. Beaver, named Calvin. They had been engaged in drilling out the tampering of a long ago loaded blast that they had tried to blast, but to no effect, and while thus engaged the powder ignited with this terrible result.

The mine is located probably four miles north of this place. Mr. Beaver has been prospecting for coal, and is reported to have had a good outlook.

While a party of workmen were engaged in cutting grain in a field near Mount Pleasant Mills, a small village, seven miles from here a thunder gust arose, and some sought refuge under a wheat shock, when a bolt of lightning struck a man by the name of Wenrich, almost instantly killing him. Several others were stunned by the stroke, but will recover.

IT WENT ROUND AMONG THE NEIGHBORS.—Mr. Levi Stahl, merchant and postmaster at Fostoria, Pa., writes:

'Mr. J. A. McDonald, Reedsville, Pa.
DEAR SIR.—Some time ago I had a severe attack of chronic diarrhoea. Could obtain no relief. A friend gave me a part of a bottle of your Curtis' Carmelite Cordial, and a few doses entirely cured me. The balance of the bottle went around among the neighbors. Since then I have written to New York and Philadelphia for the medicine but could not procure it. I traced up the bottle we had and found it was purchased of Mr. Jacob Cowan, merchant in Altoona, and from him obtained your address. Please forward me one dozen bottles by express at once, as I do not wish to be without it in my family and wish to sell it in my store.'

Single bottle Curtis' Carmelite Cordial guaranteed to cure any case cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea; cramps, pains, and all irritation of the bowels incident to change of climate, diet or water.

Esterhazy's Scheme.

To Transfer 20,000 Hungarians From Pennsylvania to Canada.

OTTAWA, July 12.—Count Esterhazy, who had a satisfactory interview with the Government in reference to colonizing 20,000 Hungarians in the Northwest territories, is the Hungarian nobleman banished for participation in the revolution of 1848. Many Hungarians were exiled at the same time and settled in Pennsylvania, where they worked in coal and iron mines. From time to time others of their countrymen joined them until they have reached the number stated. Lately their lot has been embittered by innumerable conflicts with other nationalities, especially during the recent coal and iron miners' strikes, and a large majority of them having been engaged in agricultural pursuits previous to their exile, have determined to return to agriculture. The land chosen is a tract of 200,000 acres, situated within the Canada Pacific Railway belt.

Count Esterhazy proposed to the Government that an equivalent in Government land elsewhere be given to the Canadian Pacific Railway for the desired tract. They will pay their own way to the nearest point on the Canadian Pacific, which will transport them free the remainder of the route. Those who have no money will be supplied from a common fund contributed by the richer ones.

An Efficient Remedy

In all cases of Bronchial and Pulmonary Affections is AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. As such it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession, and in many thousands of families, for the past forty years, it has been regarded as an invaluable household remedy. It is a preparation that only requires to be taken in very small quantities, and a few doses of it administered in the early stages of a cold or cough will effect a speedy cure, and may, very possibly, save life. There is no doubt whatever that

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Has preserved the lives of great numbers of persons, by arresting the development of Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Pulmonary Consumption, and by the cure of those dangerous maladies. It should be kept ready for use in every family where there are children, as it is a medicine far superior to all others in the treatment of Croup, the alleviation of Whooping Cough, and the cure of Colds and Influenza, ailments peculiarly incidental to childhood and youth. Promptitude in dealing with all diseases of this class is of the utmost importance. The loss of a single day may, in many cases, entail fatal consequences. Do not waste precious time in experimenting with medicines of doubtful efficacy, while the malady is constantly gaining a deeper hold, but take at once the speediest and most certain to cure,

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 10 Dexter St.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Friend: I am sorry, Doctor, you have left Boston. Persons continue to come to my house to inquire respecting you, while many others write me. Many who left me said they would surely seek your aid. Your success has been wonderful, and I am quite sure without a parallel. To my surprise my large Hernia appears to be perfectly healed. I did not expect it at the age of 70. After receiving your treatment I was relieved from suffering which was fast taking my life. I have no idea I should be living had you not taken my case in hand. I weigh now 170 pounds, over thirty pounds more than then. I think you must receive a great amount of happiness from the relief given and gratitude rendered.

You owe it to my son in Boston, who has known many of your patients before and after healing, that I applied to you. "Go," said he, "to Dr. Sherman; he is doing wonders." I had failed of help from a dozen others and doubted, but he would not let me rest till I went. I bless the day I did so. It is to me a mystery, Doctor, that you have so wonderfully out-distanced all in your profession.

I hope your life will long be spared to relieve sufferers, and thus bless the world. Most affectionately and gratefully yours, REV. JOHN ALDEN.

The Rev. John Alden's case was quite as bad as Mr. James Corlew's, in Dr. Sherman's illustrated book. Those who value immunity from strangulated rupture, the injury trusses inflict, and the comforts of physical soundness should lose no time in securing the benefits of Dr. Sherman's treatment and remedies. His book, containing likenesses of bad cases before and after cure, with evidence of his success and indorsements from distinguished physicians, clergymen, merchants, farmers, engineers and others, is expressed to those who send 10 cents. Dr. Sherman can be consulted daily at his office, 251 Broadway, New York, except Thursdays and Fridays, when he will be in Philadelphia office, 302 Walnut Street. NOTE.—No operation or detention from business Patients from a distance can receive treatment and leave for home same day. 23 4t

PYÆMIA

Is the most virulent form of blood-poisoning. Less speedily fatal, but not less certainly so, is the vitiation of the blood of which the first symptoms are Pimples, Sties, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions. When the taint of Scrofula gives warning of its presence by such indications, no time should be lost in using AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, the only perfect and reliable medicine for the purification of the blood.

SCROFULA

Is a foul corruption in the blood that rots out all the machinery of life. Nothing will eradicate it from the system and prevent its transmission to offspring but AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. PIANO TUNING.--I expect to spend my vacation in Centre county during the month of August and persons wishing any piano tuning can address me at Aaronsburg, Pa. W. T. MEYER.

—T. H. Harter, of the Middleburg Post, called at the JOURNAL office one day last week. Tom had been spending a few days among his relatives in town and devoted some of his time to fishing.

—As a miller, Valentine Breon, of Wolfe's Store, is quite famous. He always grinds splendid flour, which is the delight of the housewife and constantly keeps up his reputation as the boss miller.

—G. A. Harter informs us that there is a tree on his father's farm in the northestern part of the borough which measures twenty-four feet in circumference on the stump. It must be a regular giant.

—Abs. Harter has taken the place of his son George, in the Millheim Grocery, and will hereafter attend to the wants of his customers. If Abs. makes as good a merchant as he is an auctioneer he'll make the grocery boom.

—Conductor Frank Stoughton, who run on the early morning train between Spring Mills and Lewisburg for several years, took charge of his new position as assistant supervisor of the Lykens Valley brauch on the 6th instant.

—We see in the Bellefonte papers that the Bellefonte, Nittany and Lemont railroad will be open for travel and traffic about the 1st of August and that trains will run between Montandon and Bellefonte both morning and evening.

—Our townsman, W. L. Bright, left on Thursday for Philadelphia, with his fourth car-load of cattle. A full-blooded Alderney cow, weighing about 1000 pounds, and said to have been one of the best cows in this section of country was in the lot.

—Several of the young ladies of the Luth. S. S. have been raising funds to purchase one of those fine Luther portraits at Deininger's Journal store. The picture was hung last week and now forms a splendid piece of decoration in the Luth. chapel.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.—J. H. Frank, west of Millheim, gives notice that he has for sale a superior quality of Wheat, which he calls "Farmers' friend," for seeding purposes. Farmers desiring some of this excellent wheat are requested to apply to him

KATE L. SHRINER, Principal,
Mifflinburg, Pa.

—We notice H. F. Donehower and Johnson Kerstetter, two painters from Lewisburg in town. They are engaged in frescoing the interior of the new Reformed church at Aaronsburg, and will undoubtedly make a good job of it. The church will soon be ready for dedication.

—It is currently reported that J. B. Fisher's Penn Roller Flouring Mills at Farmer's Mills turn out flour equal if not superior to any made in the state. The sample sack, which was sent to this office recently,and the bread baked from it, fully prove the truthfulness of the report.

—To most children the bare suggestion of a dose of castor oil is nauseating. Why not, then, when physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills ? They combine every essential and valuable principle of a cathartic medicine,and being sugarcoated are easily taken.

—D. W. Zeigler's log house on Penn street was lifted from its old foundation last Friday and was moved back on a new wall. On the vacant space a new dwelling house will be built. The property looks considerably tore-up at present, but till fall we presume the site will be covered by a fine building.

—The picnic which was held in Alexander's grove last Saturday by Miss Cora Reifsnyder and her scholars was favored by fair weather and attended by a goodly number of our people. The day was pleasantly passed in swinging, playing games and working away the contents of many well-filled baskets.

LAWNSOCIAL.—There will be a Lawn Social under the auspices of the Lutheran Sunday school of Aaronsburg on the lawn in front of Mr. Emanuel Ettinger's residence, on Saturday afternoon and evening, August 1st, 1885. The refreshments will consist of ice-cream, cakes,&c. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

—A number of trees were broken down on Alexander's farm south of town by the storm on Thursday. A large tree on the Dutweiler farm, adjoining Alexander's was struck by the lightning and badly tore up. The gale swept through the valley at a terrific rate and torrents of rain thoroughly drenched the ground.

—The Centre Hall Reporter proposes to have the excursion on the extended railroad run to Centre Hall to hold a basket picnic in one of the neighboring groves. As far as our end is concerned, we would much sooner go through to Bellefonte and have the satisfaction of seeing the whole of the newroad and at the same time visit the county seat.

FESTIVAL.—The undersigned would respectfully inform the public that they will hold a festival in the town hall at Millheim on Friday and Saturday, July 24th and 25th, at which ICE CREAM, CAKES & LEMONADE will be served in the best manner. The proceeds are to go for the benefit of the unfinished Ev. church and they extend a cordial invitation to all to attend and patronize the festival.

EV. LADIES' MITE SOCIETY.

—Almost every person has some form of scrofulous poison latent in his veins. When this developes in scrofulous sores, ulcers, or eruptions, or takes the form of rheumatism, or organic diseases, the suffering that ensues is terrible beyond description. Hence the gratitude of those who discover,as thousands yearly do, that Ayer's Sarsaparilla will thoroughly eradicate this evil from the system.

WEDDING BELLS.—Last Thursday evening Mr. John Maize's residence, Main street, was the scene of a happy event, the marriage of Mr. Wm. Cassel, of Harrisburg to Miss Marion Maize,of this place. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock, p.m., by Rev. B. Hengst, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, who were afterward treated to a delicious repast, as well as to a serenade by the band. The newly-married parties left for Harrisburg on next morning's train. We are under obligations for a share of the festive wedding cake, and in return offer our sincere congratulations to the bride and groom.

—We are glad to learn that the bakery business of Mrs. Zeigler is increasing to such an extent, that the lady is compelled to advertise for additional help. In connection with the new dwelling house, a large and improved oyen will be erected and the bakery will be enlarged in general in order to accomodate the growing trade.

—The Pastor's Gleaner, published and edited by Rev's. Z. A. Yearick and N. J. Miller, is circulating among their members of the Aaronsburg and Rebersburg Reformed charge. The editors display considerable journalistic talent and succeeded in getting up a real interesting religious paper. The printing was done at this office.

—Somewhere else we publish the announcement of the opening of the Mifflinburg Music School, under the management of Miss Kate L. Shriner. And right here we would say that the lady is well-known in this neighborhood for her splendid qualification as a musician and instructor and we predict a successful term for her and her scholars.

—Judging from the drafts made by John Kerstetter, Jr., the prospective hardware building on the corner of Main and Penn streets, will be a handsome and imposing brick structure. Messrs. Musser & Smith, the proprietors, propose to have their storeroom built with all the modern improvements and large enough to accomodate their increasing trade.

—Dr. C. Sumner Musser delighted his parents with another letter from the "Vaterland," this time from Vienna. He has been to the Rhine, to Heidelberg, Munich and other cities of the German empire and speaks highly of the fine sights he has seen. He has settled down to hard study at one of Vienna's great hospitals and says that so far his trip has done him a great deal of good.

—A fire at Eagleville, this county, on Sunday morning, at about half past 4 o'clock, totally destroyed the hotel and adjoining skating rink at that place. The buildings were the property of Mr. A. M. Freeman, who carried an insurance of $1800 on the hotel, but none on the rink. Mr. Freeman's family and guests saved nothing and barely escaped with their lives. The fire was started by an incendiary.

—Notice is given to the public that Prof. Miles O. Noll, of Lewisburg, will take charge of the Aaronsburg Academy after harvest. A term of TEN weeks will begin on the 27th of July. All grades of scholars will be admitted on reasonable terms. Special attention will be given to those preparing for teaching. The patronage of all desiring the education of their sons and daughters is respectfully solicited.

—The installation of Rev. M. L. Dietzler, as pastor of the Aaronsburg charge will take place in the Lutheran church of Millheim next Sunday forenoon at 10 o'clock. Rev. W. E. Fisher, of Centre Hall and Rev. W. W. Divens, of Salona, will conduct the services, which promise to be of a very interesting nature.

Children's Meeting at 3 o'clock, p. m., to which everybody is cordially invited.

—Phil. D. Stover, of Mifflinburg, a former publisher of the old Berichter in this place, has taken an interest in the Havana Republican, New York, a copy of which is on our table. It is an eight-page paper, with a patent inside and is well gotten up. The name of the sheet tells what its political color is. Mr. Stover spent several days in town week before last, to see how many subscribers he could capture for his paper.

—In the Fargo (Dakota) Daily Argus a lengthy description of the growing city Carrington is given and the following mention is made of our former townsman, W. H. B. Eisenhuth, a son of Jacob Eisenhuth, Esq. :

W. H. B. EISENHUTH

is the popular druggist of Carrington—is also engaged in the grocery business. During the short time he has been in business in Carrington he has built up a good trade and become solidly established. His store is a neat and attractive one, and displays a fine line of goods."

—The forenoon and afternoon of the glorious Fourth was very quiet in this town and the usual report of the fire cracker was emphatically absent owing to the ordinance regulating that part of "Fourth of July fun." The only conspicuous feature during the day was the Farmers' Mills band, which landlord Frain had engaged at his own expense. But after six o'clock, the heat of the day being past, the borough bestirred itself and quite a large crowd followed the two bands to the Main street bridge, where a tub race had been arranged by some of our citizens. Five contestants entered (?) the tubs to try for the two prizes and their comical efforts greatly amused the many spectators for about half an hour. The two bands then proceeded to give a promenade concert, after which Rev. Mountz read the declaration of independence. By that time Millheim was full of people from all directions, and the town clock festival, the stores, and the hotels did a fine business, until the time for the fireworks had come, when everybody went up the hill on Main street to witness the display. The best of order prevailed throughout the day and we can truly say that we spent a quiet but delightful Fourth at home.

—The Evangelical Campmeeting for Centre charge will be held under the supervision of Rev. J. M. Ettinger, P. E., of Juniata District, on the land of Jacob Gephart, about one-fourth mile north of Millheim,to commence Thursday, August 13th, 1885 and to continue one week. A cordial invitation is extended to all christians of whatsoever denomination to join in and tent with us We expect a season of good things. Bishop R. Dubbs, D. D., of Cleveland, Ohio, will be with us. All those wishing to tent with us will please apply in person or by correspondence to either of the following committee of arrangements : Rev. B. Hengst, Rev. S. M. Mountz, J. W. Krape, Jno. Maize, H. Mark.

—Dr. J. H. Dobbins has,by Gov.Curtin's recommendation, been appointed as postmaster of Bellefonte. The appointment was a surprise to many, as Dr. Dobbins had not been thought of in connection with the post office. But lightning strikes where one would least expect it and this time it struck in a good place,as far as we can glean from our exchanges. The old governor made the following other recommendations, which might as well be called fixed appointments : Ex-Sheriff T. J. Dunkle, deputy revenue collector for this district; James Dolan, government storekeeper at Beezer's distillery; D. W. Woodring, government storekeeper at Haag's; Drs. Harris and Seibert, of Bellefonte, and Dr. Fisher, of Zion, board of examiners for pension claimants.

--The information was received in Bellefonte on Sunday that a very sad accident occurred in Ithaca, New York, on Saturday, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Henry Sage, mother of William Sage, of that place. William Sage is a son-in-law of ex-Governor Curtin and the telegram was received by the Governor's family. It appears that Mrs. Sage with her sister and other members of the family were out riding when the horses ran away,throwing them out. Mrs. Sage was instantly killed and her sister was sligh tly injured. No other intelligence except that the funeral of Mrs. Sage will be held to-morrow (Tuesday), have been received.—Bellefonte Daily News, July 12.

—Lightning struck the house of Daniel Ulrich Jr., in the western part of Main street,during the severe storm on Wednesday. The electric flash entered on the roof near the chimney, completely demolishing the same and scattering the brick in all directions. From the garret it descended into the bedroom and from there through the ceiling into the kitchen, where Mrs. Ulrich and one of her children were at the time. The child was playing on the floor and the lightning, after touching the feet of the cook stove ran around and out at the washboard, passing the child and its mother within a few feet, but leaving them uninjured. The carpet had caught fire, which was at once put out by several men who had been working in the fields near by. It was a narrow escape for the occupants of the house.

GRAND HARVEST HOME PICNIC.—Posters have been put out announcing that a Harvest Home Picnic will be held in Dr. P. T. Musser's Grove, 1¼ mile west of Millheim, on Saturday, August 1st. Four Cornet Bands have been invited to furnish music during the day and evening. Good speakers will deliver appropriate addresses in the forenoon. Base Ball, Croquet, Cricket, Swings, &c. will form some of the amusements in the afternoon. Balloon Ascension in the evening at 8:30 o'clock, also a performance by a gentleman swinging 60 feet in the air while standing on his head.

The committee are spending considerable time and money to prepare the grounds and make other necessary arrangements and they feel satisfied that all who may attend will have a splendid time. The grove is one of the finest in the valley, with a large spring of cold limestone water in the centre, and is specially adapted for a picnic. A cordial invitation is extended to the people of Pennsvalley to attend.

-- We have received complimentary copies of the latest compositions by Prof. W. T. Meyer, of Shamokin, bearing the following titles : "Nigella," Morcean Brillante ; "Sounds from the Ocean," Grand March for Piano ; "Lightly Trip" Polka for Piano Cabinet Organ and "Eva's Waltz." They are pieces of music worth having and give strong evidence that Aaronsburg's musical star still shines and increases in brightness in the world. We return our best thanks.

The following article from the Milton Argus plainly shows that others have similar opinions of Prof. Meyer :

With the Rescue band, of Shamokin, which made musical the Friday evening assembly of the Milton band, I met their teacher and an old friend, Prof. W. T. Meyer. Of him it may be truly said that music was born in him, and it has been encouraged to flow on, unchecked except by discreet direction, until it permeates every fibre of his system, is indeed the animating fluid of his personality He is yet a young man but he stands head and shoulders above any of his compeers in this or adjacent counties either in the power of interpreting music vocally or instrumentally or of composing and arranging it. Musicians of wider fame as instructors and interpreters have paid him the highest possible compliments. Yet his head is not turned by these recognitions of his merit. He has not attained the standard of excellence set for himself, but seeks by constant study of the best masters and incessant practice to mount to higher planes of art and power alike for his own gratificaton and that of the many who call him master. If health stand by him,be has a brilliant future to win.

—Lewisburg's centennial on the Fourth was pronounced a grand affair by all who witnessed it. The parade which started at 12 o'clock, was a fine pageant and required about half an hour to pass a given point. The G. A. R., Military, Firemen, Industries and thirteen brass bands and six drum corps made up the long line, which proceeded through the fine streets of Lewisburg, every organization making a creditable display by their excellent marching. After the parade everybody was bent on satisfying the cravings of the inner man and by all accounts Lewisburg was well prepared for this part of the programme. In the afternoon the following exercises were observed in Commencement Hall : Music by the Milton band ; Prayer by Rev. E. H. Leisenring ; Oration by Hon. I. G. Gordon ; Historical address by Hon. J. B. Linn ; Benediction by Rev. I. H. Torrens.

In the evening the Grand Army camp fire was dispensed with on account of the absence of the leading orators and the general desire to see the fire works. The latter came off upon a raft anchored a short distance below the river bridge and commenced about 9 o'clock.

The picnic committee is working hard to get things in running order. The first of August will be the day of our jollification.

On Saturday our neighborhood was awakened by the cheering of J. H. Frank's harvest hands,who had finished cutting his grain and who raised him in the air in honor of the occasion. The neighboring farm bells responded merrily to the cheers.

Mr. Harvey Musser, from Akron, Ohio, and his father, Dr. Musser, from Aaronsburg, were among our visitors.

Many of our folks were to Lewisburg on the Fourth. Jumbo was in the hay field.

J. Melville Adams, of Williamsport, is working for H. E. Duck in harvest.

One of our boys tested the sharp edge of a scythe and cut part of his finger off. Presumably he was satisfied that the scythe would cut.

Hints About Winter Pigs.

The farmer who is this year making his first experiment in raising winter pigs, would do well to bear in mind, that in his zeal to make his brood sow pens snug and cosy, he is every whit as likely to overrun the mark, as the reverse. His anxiety to have everything as warm and comfortable as possible, will be very apt to lead him to close all means of ventilation, to exclude even a proper amount of light, or to give the little strangers no chance whatever for exercise. Then he will probably be astonished to find that his pigs, though seemingly healthy and thriving, suddenly begin to die off. It is not from being lain upon, evidently; it surely can not be from starvation; and cold is out of the question. There is no apparent cause to his mind for this startling mortality; and yet the explanation is simple enough, viz., vitiated atmosphere, and lack of exercise. Farm animals are not so widely different from human beings in their physical requirements, as many are inclined to think. "It's only for the hogs," is an argument that appeals only to the unenlightened. Make your pens as warm and tight as you please, but, for pork and profit's sake, give them decent ventilation and plenty of light. Give your young pigs a chance to run about, and stretch themselves, too. If your pens are in a piggery, let there be a small opening into another and larger pen, where the pigs can scamper around and pick up a little extra feed, thrown in from time to time; or if they are in your barn, make an opening through which your pigs can get out to the barn floor, and root about among the grass seeds. In either case, it is a good plan to have small, hinged doors, opening outward (to the south, if possible), which you can open on sunny days, and let your pigs out for a run in the open. Keep them in close confinement, and failure is certain. You can no more expect to raise winter pigs successfully, in a small, stuffy pen, than you can hope to grow Jacqueminot roses in your cellar.—L. C. MILLER in American Agriculturist for July.

[Arkansaw Traveller.]

Abraham Stockton, who, during many years lived in the southern part of Arkansaw, was, in honor to his great learning and also to the fact that he had once killed a mad dog, elected justice of the peace. The people were very anxious to see a case taken before the old man, for every man knew that Stockton's opinion would be one which the supreme court could not reverse. The opportunity came. A man named Eckford sued Mr. Chesley. The litigation grew out of a dispute concerning the ownership of a lot of sheep. A jury was impaneled, the evidence was taken, and the lawyers made their speeches. The verdict of the jury declared that the sheep should be equally divided. Before discharging the jury the magistrate said:

'Gentlemen, you've did your duty, but you ain't made no provisions fur the cost in this thing. The constitution of the United States says that, when jurymen make such an oversight, the judge shall take the matter into his own hands. Gentlemen, I'll charge you $2 apiece. I have heard a heap o' people talk about the judge's charge to the jury, an' I reckon some o' you will talk about this one, but if you say anything outen the way I'll whale the whole kit an' bilin' o' yer.'

'Your honor,' said a lawyer, 'you can't make the jury pay—'

'Can't I?' Wall, now, it's funny if we don't. They don't git a bite to eat till the thing's settled. Boys, git your pops an' keep your eyes on the jury. The laws of this state have got to be enforced.'

QUAKER

Is the Best

TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauces; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor much, really paid a real relished by all on account of its pungent aroma, taste, strength and preservative qualities. The inventor has by years of study of the spices virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers as foods of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and profits are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on it than he can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equalizes. If your grocer does not keep it, write for price, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR

For the cure of

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the checks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of a drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.

Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.
